

Staying atop the "Blue Wave".

Socialism has captured the fancy of too many voters.

They are misguided, but too few political leaders have stepped up effectively. Mark implores mainstream Democrats to voice their sensibilities.

Voice yourselves well, before the election. Don't let polls even show a majority favoring a single progressive candidate. (Beware, some will not say they are "progressive"; look deeper at how they want to use YOU R money and how they want to restrict you, your business or your use of property. Then decide).

Democrats are the largest party in Connecticut. To muzzle the effect of their leaders is a huge task. Mark Stewart Greenstein is up for that task. He is a Democrat, but a NON-progressive. His stances on personal responsibility, individualism, socialism, and a vigorous electorate are akin to those of a leader whom most current Democrat leaders have forgotten: John F. Kennedy.

Mark's stances on behalf of oppressed people are very close to those of another leader. Another whose principles modern Democrats vitiate most times they try to legislate: Martin Luther King. Dr. King fought skillfully against oppressive Southern governments. We, especially in the northeast, now have almost-as-oppressive state governments.

Our modern Democrat leaders don't know the principles of our first Democrats: Jefferson and Madison. Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, specifically arguing for the right of people to throw off their oppressive governments. We have an oppressive state and federal governments now. (Indeed King George and Parliament had a laughably low control over colonists compared to what our federal and state bureaucracies can do to us today.) Madison wrote most of the Constitution, specifically demanding LIMITED government. Democrats forget that.

Mark has been in the Democrat Governor debates. He has sat beside Ned Lamont at Democrat gatherings. He has already given direct ripostes to silly statements by Susan Bysiewicz.

<http://glastonburydems.com/glastonbury-governor-candidate-forum/>

Mark is passionate about making a better Democrat party, returning it to a better, more principled party. "But first we need to pulverize their politics.

"Literally smash / decimate / eviscerate / disembowel their leaders' bad ideas", says Mark.

The Democrat leaders hurt the very people they SAY they'd like to help:

Working Families - they tax two-earner families to the brink. (P.S. - The "Working Families Party" espouses horrible policies for families with people who truly want to work).

Black Working Families - their urban leaders make it far more expensive for families to live and save.

Single Moms - they refuse to embrace tele-commuting. They force provisions of ObamaCare that keep workers from having more than 29 hours a week. Everyone knows (even Democrats) that you don't build CAREERS on 29 hours a week. Careers are built when you take on responsibility and can show commitment to 40 hours a week or more. In essence Democrat policies keep poor women poor.

Black Single Moms - they "drug them with dependency". Welfare at the first instance! It encourages women to stay without husbands. They can become dependent on the government, so who needs a husband! Who needs a man when you can marry the government? Worst of all, all mothers want their children to succeed; but when those kids become teenagers and see momma is not working but getting a check from the government, they are tempted to do the same. And some teenage girls know the government will pay for their own apartment if they get knocked up. Instant apartment. And they get even more if the man doesn't stick around, so bye-bye potential husband. And they get almost as much for not working outside the home as for working, so why work when you can get $47,000 a year in benefits, tax free? This is the result of misguided feel-good policies. Until the 1960s Black women had higher employment rates than White women. Thanks to progressive policies, that went in reverse.

Immigrants - the Democrat leaders cripple immigrants, with welfare at the first instance and non-English acceptance in schools that prevents kids from assimilating well. Upon graduation, the only Latino kid who can earn $150,000 a year salary for an employer but lacks English ability is a ballplayer or a salesman to Cuban-Americans in South Florida.

Black Immigrants - no help here either. The best American immigrants of this young century are those from Africa, including Burundi, Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria, and Senegal. They exude American values. That's dangerous to modern progressives. Also, they tend to vote Republican, so Democrat leaders offer them nothing.

Children - the Democrat establishment tethers itself to teacher unions that refuse to elevate the most meritorious.

Black Children - the Democrat "leaders" in CT abide by dopey judges who can't / won't let minorities all see the best schooling. In Hartford particularly, they insist of keeping the Sheff v. O'Neill result that literally denies children from entering a better school BECAUSE of their race. Orval Faubus and George Wallace would be proud of this result. David Duke is laughing at the harm Democrat leaders do to Black kids. And MLK is, again, turning in his grave.

If the Blue wave comes, it will crash down on the least capable people first. Rich people will do fine. They can weather storms. They can afford to move away. They can put their savings into BitCoin and off-shore banks. Those most vulnerable to a progressive wave of "Blue" legislators are the very people Democrat leaders claim they want to help.

"Black and Blue". It's a horrible alliance. But white progressives get great mileage from it. They get staunch, almost unquestioning adherence from African Americans, 90% voter reliability and HIGH voter turnout. We all need to separate this alliance, especially stand-up African-Americans, who the Democrat leaders hurt the most.

The way to separate thoughtful Democrats from their demagogic leaders is to RIDE the blue wave. Show that we democrats in principle ("small d" democrats) are for the values that Jefferson, Madison, FDR, JFK, and MLK highlighted. We stay atop the wave.

Mark Stewart Greenstein helped pen this, and he has a small cadre of political supporters now. He will fight for the extinction of forced socialism in this race and, whether elected or not, for many years to come.

Mark is especially passionate about Connecticut returning to a responsible General Assembly. For the last 30 years Assemblymen, Democrat and RINO Republican, didn't stand up forcefully or campaign vociferously against labor giveaways, employer restrictions, tax increases, or almost unlimited bonding (a.k.a. spending children's money). If elected Governor, Mark will call out House and Senate members who twice of more vote against the interest of the people. He will help steamroll to a GOOD General Assembly to be seated within 2 years.

It takes more than just one candidate, even if it's a newly-elected Governor. Mark can't fight this alone. He is adept at riding the wave of sentiments CT voters express. He is VERY good at fashioning "wishes" that voters express, guided by principles, into government policy. So you'll see him adroitly working with Democrats, Independents and Republicans. He's convinced that 90% to 99% of CT voter actually share the same sentiments for a government that is "Fiscally tight; socially permissive". The 1 to 10% who are incorrigibly reliant on or disrespectful of big government are those Mark deems "statists". He has a party for them too: a rejuvenated CPC, where they can have the social welfare, labor laws, health insurance, retirement largesse, and all the dopey college education they wish, so long as they don't force them on others. As Mark says "NO leader in your lifetime has offered progressives a better deal that I do -- take it!." And with it remove yourselves from the rest of our civic lives.

Mark does not surf. (He does snowboard decently). Help him and all of Connecticut "ride" this blue wave. Even non-surfers know, you do THAT by preparing. You await the roll on your surfboard so that you can ride to the crest.

That's us. We hope you can join. You got this!